I. & C. Directors Believe Extension
Should be Made From Rushville or Connersville.

AS THEY ARE NOW ADVISED

Pres. Henry Makes Statement to Press Concerning Last Week's Meeting at Anderson.

That the fight for the extension of the Indianapolis & Cincinnati Traction Company's line has resolved itself to a contest between Rushville and Connersville boosters is intimated in a statement made to the press by Charles L. Henry, president of the interurban company.

The statement is so worded as to indicate that the extension from Greensburg by way of Batesville and Harrison, Ohio, will scarcely be considered further, and that the contest now lies between the routes from this city by way of Brookville and Harrison, Ohio and from Connersville by way of Liberty and Hamilton, Ohio.

This conclusion was reached at the monthly meeting of the directors of the company at Anderson last week. The president says that the opinion of the directors was that the extension, from present indications, should be made either from this city or Connersville. At the same time, in a resolution adopted by the directors, the president was directed to continue obtaining right-of-way contracts and franchises over all three proposed routes of extension. This indicates that the Greensburg route is not entirely eliminated.

President Henry's statement to the press is as follows:

The following action was taken at the meeting of the directors of the Indianapolis and Cincinnati Traction company on June 27, 1912:

"The president presented a written report of the surveys and other work done on the suggested routes for the extension of the company's lines to Cincinnati from Connersville, from Rushville and from Greensburg; the reading of which report was followed by a general discussion of the whole matter. After the matter had been fully discussed it seemed to be the opinion of the directors that, as at present advised, the extension should be made either from Rushville, by way of Brookville, or from Connersville by way of Hamilton, but feeling that the question could not now be satisfactorily determined, Colonel Durbin offered the following resolution which was duly seconded and unanimously adopted:

"Resolved, That in the opinion of the directors, sufficiently complete data as to rights of way, franchises in the cities and towns and additional surveys that may be found necessary are not at hand to determine at this time by what route the company's line should be extended to Cincinnati.

"Resolved further, that the president be and is directed to proceed with the securing of contracts for rights-of-way and franchises in the cities and towns along the route from Greensburg via Batesville; along the route from Rushville via Brookville, and along the route from Connersville via Hamilton; and that the determination as to what route shall eventually be followed be deferred for future action."

CUMMINS GIVES UP AND PAYS FINE

Milroy Man Says he Regrets Trouble at Colter Stone Quarry Last Friday.

Ernest Cummins, the man who struck Andrew Stone in the head with a rock last Friday at the Colter & Son stone quarry northeast of Milroy, where both were employed as teamsters, and who was sought by the sheriff and chief of police, gave himself up at Milroy today. He has pleaded guilty to the charge of assault and battery before Squire Richie and paid a fine of a dollar and costs.

Cummins is said to regret the trouble very much. He pointed out to a correspondent of the Daily Republican that he had worked around Milroy for seven years and had never been in trouble before. He declared he had never been arrested in his life and had never paid a fine. Cummins says that he sent a man to Rushville Saturday to pay a fine, but that the man was informed he would have to arrange a settlement with Squire Richie where the charge was preferred.

Cummins declared he was around the scene of the trouble all last Friday afternoon when the officers were searching for him, and that he left Saturday morning, when he learned they were after him, and didn't return until Saturday night.

TO CALL CARNIVAL BY ANOTHER NAME

Milroy Will Duplicate Event of Last Year Only This Time It's
"a Funfest."

LAST YEAR IT WAS ORIGINAL

Milroy will repeat the carnival which amused so many people last year under a different name. This year it will be known as the "funfest," a more appropriate name.

Dates have not been decided upon, but sentiment is for an earlier date. It is believed that the carnival would be more successful if it is held prior to the Eagles' jubilee in Greensburg. Last year Milroy gave one of the most original carnivals ever seen in this section of the State. The parade was the life of it. Common and uncommon things were burlesqued and there were all sorts of ludicrous conceptions, such as the snake charmer, the sky pilots, etc.

It will be the purpose this year to go one better. If the weather proves not unfavorable the carnival will be a great drawing card.

POWWOW PLANS ARE COMPLETE

Red Men Announce Program for Fourth of July Celebration at Fair Grounds.

OX ROAST AT NOON IS FREE

Day's Events Include Races, Ball Games, Balloon Ascensions and Many Other Attractions.

The program for the Fourth of July celebration to be given at the fair grounds under the auspices of the Red Men has been completed. The powwow and ox roast promises to attract one of the largest crowds ever in the city. Special trains will be run from Columbus, Shelbyville and Richmond. The traction line will also run special cars and will furnish transportation to and from the fair grounds.

The program at the fair grounds will start at 10:30 o'clock. The morning attractions include Shetland pony races, motorcycle races and band concerts. All the attractions at the fair grounds will be open by noon and from the list already obtained a large number of concessions will be on the grounds.

One of the features of the day will be the ox roast which will be served at noon. The ox roast will be absolutely free and there will be enough of the big feed for everyone. The afternoon program will include a mule race, a trotting and pacing road race, motorcycle and automobile races. The events will be handled by competent men and the large crowd will be assured of some fine amusement. The events at the fair grounds will be concluded by a balloon ascension by John Innis.

Rushville and Shelbyville will cross bats for the second time during the day at the South Main street grounds immediately after the program is completed at the fair grounds.

What is expected to be one of the largest and most spectacular parades ever given here will occur that night. It is to be a historical parade and will start at 7:30 o'clock. The parade will be followed by a display of fireworks and another balloon ascension. The day will close when the Red Men give away the automobile. The special trains will be held here until the program is completed.

LEAP YEAR BAD FOR JUNE BRIDES

Only Eleven Licenses Are Issued to Rush County Couples During Month of Roses.

FEW CIVIL SUITS ARE FILED

June brides were at a premium in Rushville this year. There were only eleven marriage licenses issued to Rush county couples during the month of brides which closed yesterday. It may have been because this was leap year, or it may not have been. Anyway the marriage license clerk found June of last year, which was not leap year, a much more profitable month. Then-seventeen licenses were issued.

There is a noticeable lack of civil suits on the entry docket for the month of June. Just three insignificant ones were filed. Between May 25 and June 27, not a civil suit was entered in the clerk of the court's office. This is said to be unusual in this court.

STONE PREPARES THE JUNE SHEET

County Auditor Apportions Spring Installment of Taxes to the Various Funds.

$5,800 ADVANCED TO THE STATE

This Leaves Amount Due From Rush
County on Semi-Annual Statement $33,527.93.

County Auditor Jesse Stone has prepared his June settlement of State and county revenue and other taxes, for the year 1911, payable in the year 1912.

The settlement sheet shows that $247,619.70 was collected in Rush county from all sources and for all funds. The total collections at the spring installment last year were $225,884.34, which shows a gain this year of $21,735.36.

Amount of taxes due the State treasurer, the settlement sheet shows, was $39,327.93. The county treasurer, William M. McBride, settled with the State treasurer last week. But he did not pay the State official that amount. A sum of $5,800 had already been advanced the State on the June settlement in response to distress calls sent out by the State treasurer, and this amount was subtracted from the sum due, leaving $33,527.93.

The sheet shows that the tax collections were apportioned as follows: State tax, $10,564.43; Benevolent Institutions fund, $5,551.81; State debt sinking fund, $1,665.41; State school tax, $15,690.20; State educational institution fund, $3,054.50; county tax, $26,672.12; township tax, $8,423.11; tuition tax, $29,274.76; special school tax, $32,843.81; road tax, $18,386.47; township poor tax, $2,014.52; free gravel road repair, $13,324.29.

The amount apportioned to the court house debt was due as follows: court house bonds principal, $11,111.77; interest, $3,497.90.

The amount apportioned to pay for township gravel roads was: $39,243.43; corporation tax, $11,790.77; corporation school bonds, $7,735.73; library tax, $1,152.86; streets and alleys, $137.93; water and light, $5,354.07; city bonds, $29.73.

NOVEL AUTO RACE FOR JULY FOURTH

Walter Miller and Paul Offutt Will Pull Off Event at Red Men's Powwow.

ARE BUSY TUNING MACHINES

An automobile race not on the program will be run July 4 at the Powwow to be given by the Red Men. The race will be between Walter Miller in his "Blitzer Benz" and Paul Offutt, driving "Old Lizze." Both machines are "one lungers" of the vintage of '69 and a hot race is expected. Miller has his machine tuned up and ready for the race. Offutt is still trying to get his boat limbered up and spent most of Saturday pulling the machine around the city with another auto. He has hopes of getting it ready by the Fourth. The race promises to be a novel affair and is an added attraction for the Red Men.

DEMOCRAT HEARS REPORT

Story That Bryan Got 242 Votes Set
Them Wild.

In the parlance of the newspaper fraternity, a grapevine was started after dinner today, when a bulletin was placed in Hargrove & Mullin's window announcing that W. J. Bryan had received 242 votes on the twenty-ninth ballot. This set a lot of local Democrats almost crazy. A number of them have been hoping against hope that the "peerless one" would be nominated, but their hopes have long since been dashed to pieces. This was later announced to be a false report.

HENRY MORRIS GETS THAT MORRIS CHAIR

Porter at I. & C. Traction Station
Goes to Indianapolis Today to Claim His Bride.

ALL FALSE ALARMS BEFORE

Henry Morris, porter at the Indianapolis & Cincinnati Traction Company's general offices here, went to Indianapolis this morning to claim his bride. There have been a lot of rumors concerning Henry's proposed matrimonial ventures in the past, but he asserts that this latest story is no false alarm.

The girl—her name is Viola West. Yes, Henry has known her for some time. The romance has been smoldering along for months—yes, years. But Henry has been able to keep it a secret. Even the crowd around the traction office was not "wise" that Henry was about to take the fatal step.

The people in the office will now have the opportunity to buy Henry that Morris chair. Once before, when stories were going the rounds that Henry intended to take a chance at wedded life, they took up a collection to help Henry enjoy bliss that comes to those who have Morris chairs. It is said they expect to carry out the threat, now that Henry's in earnest.

I. & C. LINEMAN HAS DISTRESSING TIME IN GETTING MARRIED

Earl F. Brown's Bride Fails to Arrive
According to Schedule and he is Distracted.

SEARCH FOR THE LOST GIRL

Earl F. Brown, an I. & C. lineman, had considerable difficulty in getting married, due to a stupid train caller in Detroit, Michigan. The story runs thus. Miss Rosanna Landry of Detroit was to arrive in Rushville Saturday evening over the C. H. & D. at 5:54 o'clock, and she and Mr. Brown were to be wedded that night. The bridegroom-to-be was rushed to the station, and was dismayed when his future wife did not appear. Her trunk was taken off the train, but no Miss Landry.

Brown was distracted. He telegraphed to Arlington and the conductor searched the train there, but no young woman answering to that name was on the train. He telegraphed to Connersville, and still the search was fruitless. She had not

Third Ballot Today—29 of 30
Goes to Wilson.

(Bulletin.)
(By United Press.)

Baltimore, July 1. — Thirty-third ballot: Clark 443½; Wilson, 477½; Underwood, 103½; Harmon, 29; Kern, 2; Foss, 28; absent, ½.

[Special to the Daily Republican.]
Baltimore, July 1.—Late this afternoon the Democrats in national convention here had taken the thirty-second ballot for a presidential candidate, and the deadlock had not been broken.

The convention opened this morning at 11:03 o'clock, after having adjourned for Sunday shortly before Saturday midnight. Many were predicting this afternoon that a nomination would result before today's session ended.

Senator Luke Lea of Tennessee, predicted at 11 o'clock that Wilson would pass the 500 mark early in the day and be nominated before night.

The balloting today put a different complexion on the race for the nomination. Wilson, the New Jersey governor went ahead of Clark on the thirtieth ballot, the fourth one cast today. Wilson gained steadily and Clark gradually lost ground.

The Indiana delegation left its native son, Gov. Marshall on the third ballot east today. All but one of the votes of the Hoosier delegation went to Wilson, while one was for Kern.

Wilson polled 477½ votes on the thirty-second. This is a gain of 70 votes since the last ballot taken Saturday night, before adjournment. Clark polled 443½, a loss of 17 during the same period.

The others remained about the same except that the Harmon vote slumped 29 to 14 on this ballot. Underwood received 119½; Foss, 28; absent, ½.

Azores.

Trade conditions in the Azores are peculiar. The islands are small, and at best only a limited business can be done. As to lumber or timber, all of which is from the United States, the islands are supplied principally from cargoes of wrecked and damaged vessels. At least for the past four years this has prevailed, and during the first two weeks of January more than 150,000 feet of timber were discharged from a large steamer that encountered hurricane weather on its way from Mississippi to Europe and put into St. Michaels dismantled and with part of the deck load gone. To effect temporary repairs and permit the vessel to proceed the deck load was discharged and was sold at the low price of 2 cents per foot.—Consul Edward A. Creevey, St. Michaels.

THE FIRST GRAY HAIR SIGN OF AGE

Easy Way to Preserve Natural Color of the Hair and Make It Grow.

A harmless remedy, made from common garden sage, quickly restores gray hair to natural color. The care of the hair, to prevent it from losing its color and lustre, is just as important as to care for teeth to keep them from discoloring. Why spend money for cosmetics and creams to improve the complexion, and yet neglect your hair, when gray hair is even more conspicuous and suggestive of age than wrinkles or a poor complexion? Of the two, it is easier to preserve the natural color and beauty of the hair than it is to have a good complexion.

All that is necessary is the occasional use of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy, a preparation of common garden sage and sulphur, combined with other valuable remedies for dry, harsh, faded hair, dandruff, itching scalp and falling hair. After a few applications of this simple, harmless remedy, your hair will gradually be restored to its natural color, in a short time the dandruff will be removed, and your hair will no longer come out but will start to grow as Nature intended it should.

Don't neglect your hair, for it goes further than anything else to make or mar your good looks. You can buy this remedy at any drug store for fifty cents a bottle, and your druggist will give you money back if you are not satisfied after using. Purchase a bottle today. You will never regret it when you realize the difference it will make in your appearance.

Mount Pelee Eruption.

It will never be known how many human lives were lost in the Pelee eruption. It is generally understood that between 40,000 and 60,000 people perished. Mount Pelee was a volcano of some 5,000 feet, great masses of which were thrown suddenly upon the surrounding people in a semi-fluid condition. Escape was impossible, and so great was the force of the eruption that ships lying in the contiguous waters were almost swamped by the concussion of the air waves. Of the total number lost only 3,000 or 4,000 were white people.

Making a Goat

There were only five men in the smoking car by the time the train had passed Three Fork station, and they were all business men connected with some eastern or western house. No. 52 was not a popular train, and they took it simply because each had business engagements or schedules that must be followed.

The train had just spun through a wide, arid waste, leaving behind clouds of alkali dust.

The five men were grouped together, pretty well talked out on general subjects, and each ready for a little excitement, when one of them pointed out of the window. "See those foothills over there? Just a few months ago, they caught 'Red Bert' there. He held up a train near here, and shot the engineer and an express agent."

Then it was that a little insignificant chap who had joined them fifty miles back, by his card a representative of a small beef concern, ruffled the nerves of the five travel weary men in a way he had not before.

The little drummer, Blake, nodded his bald head, and started in to relate some of his exploits and went on: "You bet I wouldn't lay down for no man that walks here in the west or anywhere. Most of you fellows are from the east, I take it, and go through to the coast; but I do business round these parts; and I've mixed with bad men in bad places, and I've never laid down, but I've made some of them do it." He lit a cigar with a self-satisfied air.

The others said little, though one or two winked slyly, but all were of the same mind evidently; for when the conversation had ended, thoroughly killed by Blake, they drifted together in another part of the coach, after Blake had gone back into one of the rear coaches.

"Say, but that little pup gave me one gigantic pain. If he saw a bad man, he'd crawl down his shirt to get out of sight. He don't know a gun from a hole in the ground," one of them exclaimed heatedly.

The others concurred. "This is a deadly tiresome ride. Can't we get up a little excitement, and make him the goat?" another asked, eager for some excitement.

They sat in thought for a few moments, then a young member of the group spoke up. "I've got it! We ought to make a regular jack of him to pay him for that hot air, and take some of the swelling out of him. What do you say to this? One of you go back and fix up kinda rough, you know, some old duds, get a gun, and while the train's going slow up the ridge, come in and hold the bunch up!"

Brownell, an engineer, was to be the robber, because he was carrying a rough suit of clothes for mountain work.

The train stopped at a watering station, then began the long hard pull over the ridge.

In the smoker all were reading earnestly except Blake who was looking out the window.

Suddenly a door opened and slammed, and a masked figure stood before them.

"Hands up!" rang out, sharply intoned.

Every pair of hands went meekly up; Blake's face was a picture of surprise.

The masked figure came along to each one, and obediently they yielded up their worldly goods. As the robber passed in front of Blake, he, too, gave up his cash.

"Aw, come on there Fat," one of the men sang out; "he's a bad un—give it to him!"

A roar of laughter went up. Brownell slipped off his mask, exposing a grin that went from ear to ear. "Shut down on the hot air, Beef," he said; "and don't come butting in on the conversation of gentlemen unless you're asked."

Blake was staring out of the window; he turned, and in a flash he stood in the aisle, gimlet-eyed and grim, holding in his hand a black big Colt—not the toy in his case. "Quick! hand over that mon," his words sized.

"I want that mon—it's my joke, now! or—"

Brownell started at him with an angry oath. The gun spat at him, and the tall figure collapsed into a seat. As if in answer ahead and back of the smoker, echoed sharp reports.

Blake stopped and rifled Brownell's pockets, and then one by one he went to the dazed, dumfounded men.

The train was at a standstill.

Blake passed at the end of the car. "That was clever, and I went you one better. I'm the real thing. The next time you meet a little insignificant cuss like me who wants to entertain you with a few yarns—take off your hats!" He vanished.

When out of the confusion came order, and a doctor had brought Brownell around and dressed the slight wound on his shoulder, the silent group of men took notes and thought together.

"It's a regular planned hold-up; they had a man in each car. When they reached a certain spot, that was to be the signal, that was why Blake was rubbering out of the window, and threw the bluff that he was scared; but when he got there—he—well, you know," the young fellow said, mournfully.

Boring Insects Cause Farmers Heavy Losses

Two insects are causing a tremendous lot of worry in the ranks of Indiana potato growers this year, judging from the inquiries which are daily pouring into the office of Prof. James Troop, entomologist at Purdue university, and unless something is done to check their onslaught, growers in this State will find themselves losers to the extent of hundreds and even thousands of dollars.

The fact that these insects both bore into the stems of the plants has given them the popular name of "Tomato talk Borer." (Papaipema nitela) and "Potato Ealk Borer" (Trichobaris trinotata.)

The former is a member of the night-flyer family to which the cutworm moths belong, and not only infests tomato plants, but corn and several other grain and forage crops. It is also fond of many of the common weeds of the State such as the these weeds are found in or near a tomato field, the tomato plants are very likely to suffer from the borers."

Prof. Troop describes the adult moth as a grayish, with the outer edge of the front wing of a lighter shade and bordered within by a lighter colored cross line. The moth lays clusters of fifty eggs or more on weeds near the ground, where they pass the winter. These hatch early in May and the young larvae begin feeding in the tissue of the leaves.

They soon work their way down into the stems, which they bore out, causing the stalks to wither and die. The larvae is very industrious, and is often known to cause the death of several plants. When it is full grown in July, the larvae is about an inch in length and is recognized by five white stripes on the back and sides of the body. It remains in the pupa state in the lower part of the burrow, and remains in this state for three weeks, when the moth comes forth and is soon ready to lay the eggs which are to carry the species over the winter. Fortunately, there is only one brood during the year.

"This borer is essentially a lesson to Indiana farmers in the value of clean farming," comments Prof. Troop. "All weeds in the tomato field should be destroyed, preferably by plowing in the fall. This will dispose of the eggs for the succeeding crop. The infested stalks should, of course, be cut and burned as soon as discovered. This will aid materially in eliminating the insects, and Dame Nature comes to the rescue quite readily in the shape of parasites which will attack many of the caterpillars and destroy thousands of them in a season."

The potato stalk borer, which is closely related to the plum curculio, is found in several of our cultivated crops, but principally the potato. It is almost as devastating as the leaf-eating beetle which Indiana farmers have had to contend with. The adult, says the Purdue professor, is a small, ashen-gray beetle, less than one-fourth of an inch long. The egg is laid in a small hole at the base of the potato stalk: the beetle makes this hole with its long snout of proboscis. The egg hatches in a few days and the little, white grub gets its nourishment from the stalk. They continue boring in the stalks until August, and sometimes until September, and during these few months are able to cause an enormous loss to potato growers. They pupate in the stalks near the surface of the ground, remaining here until the following spring.

"The only way eradicate the insect," contends Prof. Troop, "is to destroy their homes. The insect feeding entirely within the stem of the plant, like the tomato borer, cannot be harmed by spraying with far-potato tops after the crop is harvested, burn them. It is also desirable to clean up all the "horse nettles" or "bull nettles" which belong to the potato family of plants and destroy them in like manner. Growers of late varieties of Indiana potatoes should be on the look-out for this insect, as it is especially damaging to such varieties, its life history showing that the insect does not have sufficient time to do any great damage before the earlier varieties mature."

LET US SHOW YOU NO-RIM-CUT TIRES
You are undoubtedly convinced that you should use No-Rim-Cut tires. Every motorist has read about No-Rim-Cut tires again and again in the magazines and newspapers. You have read how the 10 per cent oversize and No-Rim-Cut features cut tire bills in two. You have wanted these tires. They are here now. Let us show you.

NO-RIM-CUT FEATURE
No-Rim-Cut tires have six types of 126 braided wires in the base, making the base absolutely unstretchable. Nothing can force the tire out of the rim channel. A hooked base is not necessary to hold the No-Rim-Cut tire on. The hooked side of the tire is turned away from the tire. Then the tire, when deflated, rests on the rounded side of the rings. Rim-cutting is impossible.

10 PER CENT OVERSIZE
GOOD YEAR
When a car is overloaded the tires get that extra strain. That hastens breakdowns—means blowouts. No-Rim-Cut tires are made 10 per cent oversize to provide for overload. The construction allows that. That oversize means 10 per cent more air—10 per cent more carrying capacity. That oversize saves all that overloading costs. Consider these features and what they save the motorists. No-Rim-Cut tires cost no more than standard clincher tires. Why shouldn't you adopt No-Rim-Cut tires. Come and see them and you will.

JOHN KERN HEADS THE LIST

Then Come James, Culberson, Rayner and O'Gorman.

Baltimore, July 1.—With the question of who shall be the nominee, the Democratic national convention is struggling again today, with the answer apparently as far away as when balloting began Friday morning. When the convention, at 11:05 Saturday night, adjourned until this morning at 11 o'clock, twenty-six ballots had been taken since the first call of the states. The ballots Saturday ran from the thirteenth to the twenty-sixth. Wilson began at 356 1/2 and ended at 407 1/2, a net gain during the day of fifty-one votes. Speaker Clark began at 554 and fell to 463 1/2, a loss of 90 1/2 votes. On the twenty-sixth ballot Clark received 463 1/2; Wilson, 407 1/2; Underwood, 112 1/2; Foss, 43; Marshall, 30; Harmon, 29; Bryan, 1. Kern lost his one vote in Ohio in the twenty-third ballot.

William J. Bryan has issued a statement suggesting the names of several leading Democrats as compromise candidates in case no arrangements can be made between Governor Wilson's people and Speaker Clark's friends which would be satisfactory to the progressives, of which he regards himself as spokesman. He says that Senator Kern of Indiana, Senator-elect James of Kentucky, Senator Culberson of Texas, Senator Rayner of Maryland or Senator O'Gorman of New York would be entirely satisfactory to the progressives. Mr. Bryan devotes a good part of this statement to another denunciation of what he considers a Ryan-Belmont-Murphy alliance and repeats that no candidate must accept New York's ninety votes in order to get the necessary two-thirds. He speaks of "enforcing" and "imposing" his will on the convention. Mr. Bryan's statement discloses that Senator Kern is his real choice for president. He insists that the candidate for vice president must be equally as trustworthy as the candidate for president, because the progressives would not be satisfied with only one life between a progressive administration and reactionary control. The commoner assumes that an agreement should be reached easily if Speaker Clark will agree with Governor Wilson not to accept the Murphy support.

The situation when the convention reassembled this forenoon had resolved itself into this question: Can Champ Clark hold together enough votes to prevent the nomination of Woodrow Wilson? During a Sunday of conferences the indications were that Wilson had continued to gather strength and that he would enter the convention today with a considerable advance over the vote cast on the twenty-sixth ballot.

The Wilson managers regard a Wilson victory as sure and contend that it will be only a question of wearing down what remains of the Clark strength. To accomplish this the Wilson delegates are prepared to stay on the ground all summer if necessary. The Clark men, on the other hand, are plainly depressed over the speaker's chances, but they contend that they have at least 440 delegates who will stand by Clark until the heavens fall. It is through their hold on these delegates that the Clark managers expect to be able to prevent the nomination of Governor Wilson and if they cannot turn the tide back to Clark, at least prevent the nomination of the New Jersey man. To exercise this veto power, Speaker Clark needs only 262 delegates.

All conferences have come to naught so far as any agreement upon a candidate for the breaking of the deadlock is concerned. After all the pulling and hauling the lines between the Wilson and Clark forces have merely tightened, and it seems that there will be considerable more balloting before a definite settlement of the nomination.

Brother Bryan hurled himself into the situation again last night by issuing a statement attacking Champ Clark. Bryan's fight upon Clark and the New York delegation has resulted in adding an irritating factor to a situation that already was badly confused. Bryan in this statement returns to the attack upon New York State's delegation. He describes the New York delegates as wax figures. He condemns Clark for his attitude in the fight over the temporary chairmanship, and adds that the speaker is too at heart but has been misled by evil influences around him and has also wasted golden opportunities within the last few days.

The speculation in regard to the Illinois, New York and Indiana delegations is more intense today than at any other time since the Democrats gathered here. It is acknowledged that the 173 votes in these delegations will probably determine the candidacy for president. It is predicted that when the break from Clark comes Wilson will get considerably more than a majority of the Illinois delegation. It is known also that about twenty-three of the thirty Indiana delegates who up till this time have been voting for Governor Marshall, under instructions, now favor Wilson. In the New York delegation the Wilson sentiment has been growing. Senator O'Gorman has announced publicly that he is for Wilson, and expressed absolute confidence that the governor of New Jersey would be the choice of the party. From other men in the New York delegation it was learned that strong pressure is being brought to bear upon Murphy to step in eventually behind New Jersey's governor.

LEADERS AT SEA
They Do Not Even Venture a Guess on What Outcome Will Be.

Baltimore, July 1.—The situation into which the convention has deadlocked itself was productive of nothing more over Sunday than a bedlam of opinions. Leaders who are usually to be relied upon for information as to the real situation admitted that they were unable to make even a sensible guess. There even is talk of an adjournment of the convention for thirty days.

Senator O'Gorman of New York said: "I believe that Woodrow Wilson will be nominated early this week. The people seem to want him, and the logic of the situation points toward his nomination."

Senator Kern admitted he was puzzled about who would eventually be named, but he added: "There will be an agreement within three days."

He was asked if the agreement would be secured by the withdrawal of both Champ Clark and Governor Wilson. He did not want to admit that, but he said that an agreement was almost in sight.

On the other hand, the principal leaders of the Clark and Wilson and Underwood forces agreed in only one thing—that these candidates would not get out of the race, and that the fight would go on.

Senator Stone of Missouri, in answer to a question as to whether Speaker Clark would withdraw if Governor Wilson did, said: "Champ Clark will never quit. We are ready to battle until election day if necessary. Clark had a majority of the delegates and his friends will not let him be robbed of the nomination that is rightfully his."

Tom Taggart of Indiana had this to say: "I look for a settlement today. If the candidates and leaders won't get down to business the delegates will take the job out of their hands. I consider that Governor Marshall is in a strong position."

"Will it be Wilson and Marshall?" Taggart was asked.

"It will be Marshall and Wilson," said the Indiana boss.

Governor Gilchrist of Florida, one of the Underwood leaders, was confident that Underwood eventually would be named.

In the meantime it is known that the Clark people are panic-stricken. The speaker's leaders are quarrelling among themselves, and Clark himself is disgusted with the whole outfit. Since the big show was put on in Baltimore the Clark lieutenants have been working at cross purposes. In fact, two organizations are affiliated with the Clark candidacy. Former Senators Fred T. Dubois of Idaho and Frank Pettigrew of South Dakota are running along independently of Senator William E. Stone, who is looked upon as the Clark leader. Stone is not consulted by Messrs. Dubois and Pettigrew, and accordingly he is very angry. The Clark leaders feel it is their boss that if the convention sticks to the job in Baltimore the Missouri man will lose.

The cocksureness of Governor Woodrow Wilson that he will be nominated was expressed in a few words by his manager, Wm. F. McComb: "I am certain," he said, "that Woodrow Wilson will be nominated. I would not have made that statement two days ago. Today there is no doubt of it."

The Wilson forces are certain that they will get the thirty votes from Indiana which have been cast all along for Governor Marshall. It is apparent that Taggart is holding the Marshall vote until he believes it will be needed to nominate Wilson. The Wilson camp is figuring on Illinois, Indiana, Massachusetts, Connecticut, Wyoming, Alaska and Idaho coming over to their candidate. While the Wilson men deny that there have been any overtures with other candidates, there are many politicians here who say that a combination may be formed with Underwood to have second place on the ticket.

Next to Bryan Underwood is the pet aversion of the warriors in the Clark camp. The refusal of the Underwood forces to go to the support of the speaker has embittered Clark and his followers. All overtures made to the Underwood leaders by the Clark men were without result. While pessimistic to a marked degree, the Clark forces have not entirely lost hope. The second tier of lieutenants are downcast, and they declared openly that the battle cry of the camp now is "anything to beat Wilson."

MANY KILLED AND INJURED

List May Reach as High as Two Hundred When Work of Searching Ruins Is Completed—Eight Blocks in the Business Part of the City Destroyed and Power Plant Put Out of Commission—Q'Appelle Also Hard Hit.

Regina, Sask., July 1.—A cyclone struck the southwestern section of the city at 5 o'clock Sunday afternoon and tore its way northeasterly through eight blocks, namely, from Albert street to Hamilton street, in the business part of the city. Falling walls and flying debris killed many people as they walked on the street or hurried along in automobiles. The estimated number of killed and injured is 200.

All available conveyances were called to pick up the dead or injured, who were then hurried off to hospitals or homes.

The telephone office was in the heart of the ruins and all lines were put out of commission, the operators being removed from the debris. The power plant was also put out of commission and the town is without electric power or light.

The morning papers issued sheets from hand presses. All telegraph wires are down excepting two, one of which has been reserved for death messages. A large elevator was blown across the railroad track. The only skyscraper in the city was in the path of the cyclone.

The property loss is roughly estimated at $1,000,000, including the building and plant of the Regina Standard. Damage is reported at Q'Appelle and other places in the path of the cyclone.

FRIENDSHIP CEASES

There is No Doubt of Complete Break Between Clark and Bryan.

Baltimore, July 1.—After a close personal and political association of sixteen years, Champ Clark of Missouri has parted company with William J. Bryan of Nebraska. In a letter addressed to Senator W. J. Stone of Missouri, Clark's manager here, Mr. Clark denounced the Bryan charge that Mr. Clark had sold out to the interests in the hope of landing the presidential nomination, as "false and infamous."

Mr. Clark further gave notice that under no circumstances would he retire from the race.

Third Parties.

When the gold democrats under the lead of Palmer and Buckner bolted the regular democratic ticket in 1896 there was a distinct issue between those who voted this ticket and those who voted for W. J. Bryan, says the Marion Chronicle. The followers of Bryan favored a double money standard, while the followers of Palmer believed in a single standard—the gold standard. The issue was clearly defined. The two factions of the democratic party differed in theory. They were directly opposed to each other on the leading political question of the day. And so it has been with other third parties—there has been a well defined issue.

So far as the proposed Roosevelt party is concerned, the conditions are different. According to the dispatches, Colonel Roosevelt announces that the new party which he contemplates will be based upon the theory that "Thou shalt not steal." This can hardly be called an issue. There are few who will be found to oppose this doctrine, and none who will oppose it publicly. At heart, everybody except the conscious thief will endorse this theory. Everyone in all the parties will accept this, so it can hardly be said a party founded upon this doctrine will present an issue sufficiently clean-cut to justify a new party. There must be something more than this, and that something must be a clearly defined issue, if the new party can reasonably hope for a prolonged existence. It is true that the magnetism or the genius for leadership of an extraordinary personality may serve for a time to hold together the dissatisfied who cannot have everything their own way in the old parties, but this alone is not enough to furnish the corner stone or a new party that is to be very long-lived.

At first thought this sentence from the decalogue may seem to be a very attractive slogan. "Thou shalt not steal"—why everybody believes this, then why not make it unanimous for the new party? Why not all vote for T. R., or whoever may be the leader of this new party? But why not go still further than this, and found the new party on the proposition that every man shall do exactly right? Why not include the whole business and say every man should be a saint? Every one will accept this as an answerable doctrine, but no one would be so foolish as to assume that a successful political party could be founded on such a proposition.

On second thought, the sober-minded American citizen will recall the fact that neither the saints nor the sinners are all confined to any one party, or to any one faction of any party. The very fact that there were scores of cooked-up contests which were abandoned by the followers of the third term as having no claim whatever to consideration, would be enough to prove that here and there even among the immaculate followers of a temporary demigod, there are those who are hardly to be regarded as saints, and then every one knows this to be true, anyway, so here again the new party would show a weakness that would have a tendency to shorten its life.

The pith of it is that if a new political party is to have any reasonable hope for a prolonged existence, it must be based upon a distinct issue between it and the other parties, and this issue must be made up of something besides platitudes that are as old as human speech and human thought. Then, too, there must be something besides the inordinate ambition of any one man; there must be something besides the assumption that the sinners are all on one side and the saints on the other; there must be something besides the prolonged whine of disappointed ambition. There must be an active, positive principle that proves a clean-cut difference between the party and others. Up to this time there has been nothing to indicate that such an issue has been or will be presented.

The Democratic Muss.

The Democrats, in national convention assembled, are engaged in an internal warfare which promises to bring results in votes for the Republican party. William Jennings Bryan, after dictating in a large measure the actions of the convention, saw fit to make a vitriolic attack on Champ Clark, the speaker of the national house of representatives, by refusing to cast his vote for Clark, for whom he was instructed, until the Tammany delegation of New York was withdrawn from his (Clark's) support.

The attack aroused the ire of Clark. Immediately after Bryan had made his speech on the floor of the convention Saturday afternoon, Clark was apprised of the fact and left Washington on the next train for Baltimore. He expected to make a dramatic entrance to the convention late Saturday night, but he was foiled. The plans of the Clark forces leaked out in some manner and a Bryan man moved to adjourn the convention before Clark could arrive.

Sam Sanderson Says:

That if the Democratic convention isn't over by the Fourth, Rushville will have to go ahead and celebrate anyway.

But Clark is determined to have redress by replying to Bryan before the convention. This is the way he feels about it, the following before a statement he gave out Saturday night after his arrival in Baltimore:

"Today in the national convention an outrageous aspersion was cast upon me and through that, upon the Democratic party by one who ought to be the last to besmudge or betray his friends or his party. So far as I am personally concerned, it is enough to say that the charge which reflects upon my personality or party integrity is utterly and absolutely false. I might afford to forget myself, but I am by the choice of the Democratic majority of the house of representatives, the ranking official Democrat in national public life. I can not be false or corrupt without reflecting upon my party in the most serious way.

Any man who would enter into an alliance with any selfish interest or privileged class of this country to gain the nomination of the presidency is unworthy of the presidency and of the speakership of the house. If I have not entered into such an alliance then the Democrat, however distinguished, who wantonly charges me with this act is a traitor to the Democratic party and to his professed friendship to me.

"I am not here to plead for a nomination or to attempt to influence any man's political action. Let every man proceed in this convention according to his convictions and the expressed will of his constituents. I ask no undue consideration from any man, be he friend or foe, but I demand exact justice from every Democrat either in this convention or throughout the nation. With William J. Bryan and his charge made in the convention today the issue is proof or retraction. I shall expect him to meet that issue.

Louis Ludlow, staff correspondent for the Indianapolis Star, who is writing about the Democratic national convention at Baltimore, in his Sunday morning's story, enumerates the Tammany crowd which is being voted on block by Charles F. Murphy, the New York Tammany boss. He points out the relations of many of the members of the delegation to Big Business. Then he proceeds:

"It was to deliver the people from the clutches of such men as these that Theodore Roosevelt went to the Chicago convention and Mr. Bryan came to Baltimore. The battles waged by the two men have been largely identical in character. Both found the cards stacked against them."

Of course, Mr. Ludlow, knowing the facts as he does, really doesn't believe such silly twaddle. Theodore Roosevelt, in his "marvelous fight" for "the rights of the common people" was supported by the same class of men as Mr. Ludlow named in the New York delegation.

Mr. Roosevelt made no pretensions to keep it quiet. He had admitted in any number of interviews that he consulted with George W. Perkins before taking a step. He was surrounded during his pre-convention campaign with men of Perkins' ilk. They all shouted for him. There was no denial of the accusation that "trust" money was being used in large quantities by Mr. Roosevelt in his fight for the dear common people.

And the Indianapolis Star attempts to foist off such silly gossip on an enlightened people like those who go to make up the Hoosier State. But if Mr. Roosevelt is a candidate for anything, it's the Star's last and only desire that Mr. Beveridge be his running mate. Now we've let the secret out at last.

There is a growing number of people who would be more interested to know if the candidates can raise a good potato crop in their back yard, than that they can make a good five minute speech from an automobile.

The journalists have all got the headlines for their reports of the Chicago convention, but if you want to find out what really happened you read the stuff the newspaper men sent home.

Thirty-seven million pieces of Socialist literature are to be distributed during this campaign. No one's pantry shelves need remain uncovered.

Some excellent prayers were made at the conventions, but the politicians were more interested in the petitions to Murphy, Penrose and Bill Flinn.

You might be able to tell a convention delegate from a Mexican Insurgent by his looks, but not by his actions.

The only way to maintain order at a national convention is to make more disorder than the other fellow can.

Mr. Bryan tells the politicians not to bow to Wall street. But how are they to get the offices if they don't?

Some interesting laboratory tests have been made in Mishawaka which conclusively prove that the fly can be prevented, says the South Bend Tribune.

The vigorous fight on the fly being conducted throughout the state under the leadership of the Indiana board of health has prevention as its keynote. Instead of urging all to "swat the fly" the cry this year is to "prevent the fly." The state board has thus gone a step farther. The Mishawaka tests show how this can be done.

Leading members of the Civic league there have gone at it from the standpoint of chemistry. There investigations show what can be accomplished, and how. To get the best results the investigators procured three pails of manure, manure being one of the chief breeding places of flies. These pails were covered with cheesecloth. One pail was let alone, conditions in that one were normal, and flies hatched by the hundreds yes, thousands were sprayed with chloro-naphtholium, a coal tar product, and no flies were hatched, the eggs being killed.

The Civic club, of Mishawaka, is recommending the general use of this coal tar product in the fight on the fly, urging that it be used on manure piles, in garbage cans, in toilets and wherever filth is found. The club is also pointed out the fact that the most of such an effort, undertaken individually, is very moderate; that the preparation costs but one to two cents a gallon and that it requires but a small quantity to be used effectively.

The fight being waged by the State board of health is thus given local application. It is shown that there is much more to it than talk; that by following the advice of the State board by putting forth a little individual effort, flies can be prevented.

Flat Foot

Causes All Sorts of Discomfort

In the first illustration we present to you the position of the bones of the foot where the arch is broken down.

You can readily see how the unnatural pressure on tender muscles, ligaments, veins, arteries and nerves must cause all sorts of pain and discomfort and retard perfect circulation.

This condition in many cases is the cause of tired, aching feet and those torturing pains so often laid to Rheumatism, Varicose Veins, Etc.

In the next illustration we show you

Arrowsmith Adjustable Arch Prop

holding the bones and muscles in their proper places, allowing nature to strengthen the strained ligaments and irritated parts and providing relief from all pains and discomfort.

It is a pleasure for us to show you the superior merits of this, the only scientific and most successful arch prop devised. It is made of German Silver. Cannot rust or corrode. Is firm, yet sufficiently resilient. May be fitted in any shoe—your regular size. Easily adjusted to the varied conditions of foot improvement. Come in and see it.

National Pure Food Board Does Great Good For People of Country

Thanks to the activities of the Pure Food Board of the Department of Agriculture, people are saved from eating many things which might be bad for them.

One of the most frequently adulterated articles of food seems to be tomato catsup. The board has issued a report on an examination made of "high grade" catsup guaranteed to be made from "whole ripe tomatoes and seasoned with pure spices." It was put up in Kansas City. The examination showed that it was made from skins and cores and contained 190,000,000 bacteria to the cubic centimeter besides many yeasts and spores, and mould filaments. "Adulteration was alleged for the reason that the product consisted in large part of a filthy, decomposed, and putrid animal of vegetable substance." The defendant pleaded guilty and was fined $100 and costs.

Perhaps it would not be fair to destroy the appetite of the public for prepared foods by telling everything the Pure Food Board finds out about such things. Live and dead worms, flies and bugs are frequently found, and filth of various kinds.

The housewife who pays fifty cents for a bottle of delicious California olive oil may feel that it is rather expensive, but she knows what she is getting. When she buys a cheaper article with a beautiful picture of a child picking a cluster of olives, and an Italian inscription about "olio fino, Palermio," etc., she is likely to get the kind of goods which the Board tells of in Notice of Judgment No. 1404 and which was not olive oil at all, but 100 per cent cottonseed oil. Arturo Marchesini was fined $100 and costs for shipping this salad oil from Illinois into Minnesota.

A certain manufacturer tried to palm off as cranberry jam a glucose concoction in which he had generously placed 22 cranberries to the pound of jam. The court imposed a fine of $25 and costs.

A dealer in the city of Washington had on sale "Brooke's Lemos Registered Trade Mark—Sweetened Lemon Juice." This was described on the labels as "a sweetened preparation of lemon juice with the full flavor of the peel." The Government alleged that the article was not a sweetened lemon juice nor entitled to be called such as it was diluted and "injudiciously affected" by the addition of water. The dealer was put under $150 bonds not to be disposed of the "lemon juice" contrary to law. It might be remarked that with the best California lemons selling as chiefly as they have been even during the recent hot weather, there should be no incentive to buy bottled goods which at best are inferior to the freshly expressed juice, and more expensive. Lemons are delicious and refreshing in warm weather and very cheap.

Canadian trade with foreign countries increased during 1911 over 1910 some $85,958, 981. Of the $524,850,792 total imports into Canada in 1911, the United States furnished $341,192,612, and of the total exports, $303,763,328, the United States took $115,203,454, so that the balance of trade was largely in favor of this country even without the aid of reciprocity.

Canada imported from the United States live animals valued at $2, 632,971, and sent us in return animals worth $1,033,534. She took breadstuffs worth $11,058,318 and sent back to us similar articles worth $1,720,876. We took fish and fish products from Canada worth $3,151,711, and sent back nothing of that character. We sold to Canada coal and coke worth $40,973, 385, copra and chocolate worth $754,153, cotton and manufactures of cotton cotton $15,098,093, flax, hemp and manufactures of $411,548, hides and skins $2,357,737, taking from Canada hides and skins worth $4,851,130, provisions $5,095,544, tobacco $3,986,308, vegetables $2,059,625, and so on including oils, wood, wool, and other things of interest to the agriculturist. We took also from Canada hay worth $4, 018,695, milk and cream worth $859,330 which was a falling off of about fifty per cent. news print paper $1,968,320, potatoes $6,494, provisions $296,811, spirits' wines and whisky $765,104.

One of the most interesting items in the schedule of imports and exports is that of settlers' effects imported into Canada amounting to $9,647,855, and the same articles exported from Canada into the United States of $1,668,405.

Canada imported from the United States in 1911 fruits to the amount of $10,890,591, and we imported from Canada the same year fruits worth $189,308.

A Shotgun Heroine

By Lawrence Alfred Clay

(Copyright, 1912, by Associated Literary Press.)

When Colonel Gilder had been called to town that morning on business, leaving his daughter Floy and the cook to care for the house, he had said to the girl before leaving:

"Daughter, remember what I have told you many times over. A tramp may appear during my absence. You will be sitting here on the veranda. He will gruffly demand food or money. You will order him away in your sternest tones."

"But he won't go," she said.

"He may or he may not. If he doesn't—if he shows a disposition to hold his ground or attack, you are to retire within your fortifications. I refer to the house. You will find my loaded shotgun in the sitting room. The tramp will probably attack by the side door, as that cannot be seen from the highway. Face the door with the gun at your shoulder. If he appears in the doorway give him warning. If he does not heed the warning—"

"Shoot him on the spot, papa," finished the daughter.

"Exactly. That is, pepper his legs with the birdshot. That will demoralize him and result in a retreat. Do not pursue him, but hold your ground until reinforcements arrive. I will be the reinforcements. Do you clearly understand?"

"I do, father."

An hour later, as Miss Floy reclined in a rocker on the veranda, a burly big tramp turned in at the gate. He had a swagger to his shoulders and a bad face. As a first military movement, the girl stood up. As a second, she assumed a very stern and uncompromising expression.

"Missy, could I get a bite to eat at the kitchen?" was gruffly asked.

"No, sir. No tramps fed here."

The man shrugged his shoulders and looked around in a leering way. He was about to observe that the rich, were growing richer and the poor poorer, and that there was no longer a show for a hard working man, when Miss Floy retired within the fortifications to secure the first advantage. The tramp took it that she had gone to call a man of some sort, or a female who could handle a broomstick with deftness and vigor, and he retreated on his reserves. As he reached the highway an auto came up and stopped and a young man alighted and opened the gate without giving him more than a passing glance.

Meanwhile, within the fortifications, the girl had armed herself with the gun. She thought the attitude of the tramp defiant. Yes, he was ascending the front steps; now he was ringing the bell; now he was shuffling his feet; now he was waiting to come around to the side door.

"Halt! Halt!"

For a moment he halted, and then his form showed in the door. The gun was fairly pointed and then discharged, and a fall and a shout followed. Then the cook came rushing in to find the girl cowering on the floor and to exclaim:

"For mercy's sake, but has the dear girl went and committed the suicide?"

"Out there! Out there!" gasped the shooter, as she pointed to the open door.

"And what's out there? Oh, missy, but here's a dead man! Was it you that went and killed him?"

"It's a tramp that attacked the house. Papa told me to retire within the fortifications and defend them."

"Tramp? If he's a tramp then I'm a lady! It's a young man, missy—a young man and well dressed, and upon my soul there's an otobomilley at the gate!"

The colonel had not instructed his daughter what to do with any dead the retreating enemy might leave behind him, and for a moment the girl could only stand and wring her hands. She had made a mistake in her quarry. She braced up after a moment and ran through the house and down the path to the gate and cried to the chauffeur, who was nodding in drowsiness:

"Quick—quick! Half a mile down the road—a doctor! I have shot your master!"

"Shot him! What for?"

"I don't know, but hurry—hurry—hurry! Maybe there's a chance to save his life."

The auto whizzed away and Miss Floy returned to the house. The cook had straightened the legs of the victim, put a pillow under his head and was sprinkling water in his face.

"Is he—is he dead?" was tearfully asked.

"Dunno, missy, thought I saw a leg twitch a minit ago."

"If he's dead, then I'll be electrocuted!"

"For sure! You see he's a beautiful young man and an innocent young man, and it'll be cold-blooded murder. Yes, you'll be 'electrocuted, but I'll be there to hold your hand and cheer you to the last."

At that moment the young man sighed. Then he opened his eyes. Then he rose up on his elbow.

"Praise the saints!" pliously observed the cook.

"I'm so glad!" whispered Miss Floy.

"Can you tell me what has happened?" asked the young man as he raised himself still higher with a little assistance.

"Yes, I shot you. I thought you were a tramp. I have sent your auto after a doctor, and we will have you in bed soon. I can't begin to tell you how sorry I am."

"You peppered my legs, and the nervous shock did the rest. Don't worry about it. This is Miss Gilder, I take it? I am Mr. Trainor. I was here to see your father. First time I was ever taken for a tramp or shot in the legs, but don't mention it."

The doctor arrived, and with the aid of the cook and chauffeur, the victim was carried to the guest chamber. About 20 bird-shot had peppered his legs. The job of picking them out lasted about two hours. During this operation the medico was gruff and uncommunicative, but when the last pellet had been laid on the stand he said:

"Young man, you could get up and ride away tomorrow, but you won't do it."

"No?"

"You'll stay here for a couple of weeks. You'll be up in two or three days, but don't forget to hobble to the last day."

"Why hobble?"

"To make a case of remorse for that girl. Remorse—admiration—love! If you are already engaged throw the girl overboard; if you are not then you will be inside of three months. What are a few bird-shot in the legs compared to a girl like Miss Gilder?"

This was a question Mr. Trainor had asked himself half a dozen times within the next two hours, and he was quite content to be a patient. Colonel Gilder heard of the shooting before reaching home, and he came rushing into the house to exclaim:

"Egad, but there's nothing to beat military tactics! The enemy appeared in force; you retired within your fortifications; he advanced to storm them; you drove him back and then sallied out and took him prisoner. All perfectly regular, daughter, and your father is proud of you. Where's the prisoner?"

Three days later as Miss Floy happened to be alone on the veranda for a moment the same old tramp reappeared. There was a grin on his face and nothing vicious about it this time.

"And how about a bite to eat under the present circumstances?"

"What circumstances?"

"Young man—shot in the legs—shot by a girl—lying upstairs—girl sorry—young man glad—moonlight—turtle doves—bless you, my children—bless you!"

"You can go to the kitchen and ask the cook!" replied the blushing young lady, "but let me tell you that you are a very impudent fellow!"

And yet the tramp knew human nature.

Six Millions for Golf Balls.

There are a number of golf courses in and near Philadelphia, and there are thousands of golf enthusiasts in this city. They will probably be interested to hear that golf players all over the country spend $6,000,000 on golf balls each year.

With the increase in interest of all out-of-doors sports, golf has steadily grown more popular, until today few communities in the United States are without at least a nine-hole course. Five years ago it was said there were a quarter of a million golfers in America. Today there are certainly half a million. It is a bit difficult to estimate the number of balls used, for players vary in time over the course, losses and in the damage they do to the gutta-percha spheres. Then, too, some have old balls remade and soiled balls repainted. It is pretty certain, however, that at least two dozen balls a season are bought by the ordinary golfer. That means twelve million balls, at fifty cents each (the seventy-five-cent ones offsetting the remades), and an investment on the part of the golf players of $6,000,000—Philadelphia Record.

No Brighter.

"When you were a boy did you always mind your father?" asked the young hopeful.

"Not always, my son," replied the governor, "but I was soundly thrashed every time I disobeyed him."

"Gee, then you didn't learn any easier than I do, did you, dad?" was the retort of the y. h.

HERMAN RIDDER

Treasurer of National Committee Has Verbal Clash With Bryan.

© 1910, by American Press Association.

A TENSE INCIDENT IN NATIONAL CONVENTION

Mr. Ridder Threatened to Recite Some History.

Baltimore, July 1.—There has just come out a story of the lively encounter between W. J. Bryan and Herman Ridder, treasurer of the national committee, which took place Saturday night just before Mr. Bryan made his furious attack on the New York delegation.

Mr. Bryan's plan practically to disfranchise New York's delegates was known in advance, and it angered some of the men who were enthusiastic supporters of Mr. Bryan in 1908. Mr. Ridder was particularly wrathful. He went onto the platform before Bryan cut loose, plucked Bryan by the sleeve and said sharply:

"You didn't refuse the $47,000 that I gave you four years ago. And $10,000 of that money was from Tammany."

"Why, why, I thought that $10,000 was a personal contribution from Mr. Murphy," said Mr. Bryan.

"Well, no matter who it was from, you didn't refuse to take it," said Mr. Ridder, who was very angry and whose voice had risen sharply. Mr. Bryan turned his back and walked to the front of the speaker's stand. Mr. Ridder called out: "I am going to bring the matter up on the floor of the convention."

When the excitement started and Bryan began to be heckled, Mr. Ridder forgot to bring up the 1908 contribution.

MYSTERY CLEARED

Headless Body of Woman Found at Woonsocket Identified.

Providence, R. I., July 1.—The mystery of the murder of the woman whose headless body was found in the Blackstone river at Woonsocket on Tuesday has practically been cleared up. Mainly as the result of a clue which the governor placed in the hands of the police, the body of the murdered woman has been identified as Angelic Parmentier Delmar, and the man with whom she lived as a wife, Henry De Louvre, has been arrested on suspicion that he may know how she came to her death. De Louvre denies all knowledge of the murder.

ANNUAL SUFFRAGE CONVENTION

Indiana Suffragists in Session at Logansport Adopt What They Call a New Declaration of Independence, and Close Their Meeting With Street Parade Headed by Fire Department, Two Bands and Platoon of Police.

Logansport, Ind., July 1.—With a grand street parade the third annual convention of the Indiana Equal Suffrage association came to a close here. More than 100 automobiles were in line and a number of floats were paraded by business firms. Two bands, a platoon of police and the city fire department headed the parade.

Miss Ruth Hildebrandt, a winsome miss of eighteen, mounted on a big black horse, was marshal of the parade.

Dr. Hannah M. Graham of Indianapolis introduced at the closing session a "new declaration of independence," which the convention adopted and which reiterates the "no representation, no taxation" doctrine.

The officers are: Mrs. Anna Dunn Noland, Logansport, re-elected president; Mrs. Alice Hamiltt, Fort Wayne, first vice president; Mrs. O. P. Smith, Logansport, second vice president; Mrs. Anna Casanges, Fort Wayne, third vice president; Margaret Williamson, Redkey, fourth vice president; Antoinette D. Leach, Sullivan, member of the national executive committee. Mrs. Max Hoffman, Logansport, secretary-treasurer.

The young men had been fishing along the river and were on their way home. As they crossed the Big Four overhead bridge they stopped to look at a C. & O. train passing below and failed to hear the approaching Big Four train as it came at a fast rate of speed around a curve.

ADDED PLEASURE TO VISIT

New Yorker's Trip to Atlantic City Remunerative Both as to His Health and Pocket.

A retired merchant who was well known in the jobbing branch in New York fifteen years ago recently spent some time at Atlantic City, where he took his wife for rest and change of scene, and where he had an unusually pleasant experience. "We met there," so he tells the story, "a man whom I had known in a business way many years ago. We and our wives walked and 'roller chaired' together, and they seemed to enjoy our company as much as we did theirs. On the day before we came away Mr. Blank called me into the billiard room, handed me an envelope addressed to me at my New York home and said: 'I intended to bring you this when our visit here was over and before we went back to our home out west.' The envelope contained a check for a balance which the man owed when his business collapsed in 1894, with interest to date. 'So glad I met you,' he added, 'for I saved the carfare to your house.' The New York man added that the debt had passed out of his mind, together with many others which had gone to 'profit and loss' in his old books.

Austin, Tex., July 1.—Colonel Cecil A. Lyon, chairman of the Republican state executive committee, has issued a call for a state convention of the party to be held at Dallas, Aug. 13, to put a full ticket in the field. Lyon has also called a meeting of Roosevelt progressives to meet in Dallas July 9 to adopt plans for forwarding the new party movement in Texas.

CONGRESS FEELS THE EFFECT OF DEADLOCK

No Quorum Present in Either House.

Washington, July 1.—A legislative situation that was already somewhat tangled is further complicated by the failure of the Democratic convention to complete its work. The gentleman's agreement not to transact any business in either house or senate expired today and neither body has a quorum. An adjournment will be taken for several days until it will be possible to obtain a quorum.

The absence of a quorum, however, did not interfere with the passage of the resolution introduced by Representative Fitzgerald of New York, chairman of the appropriations committee, continuing for a period of thirty days the appropriations of the past fiscal year, rendered necessary because of the delay in the appropriation bills.

Both the house and senate have still a good deal of work to complete before adjournment can be thought of.

ADVANTAGE OF RUGS

EASY TO SEE THEIR SUPERIORITY OVER CARPETS.

Excellent Floor Coverings May Be Purchased at Moderate Prices—Linoleum for the Kitchen and Bathroom is Important.

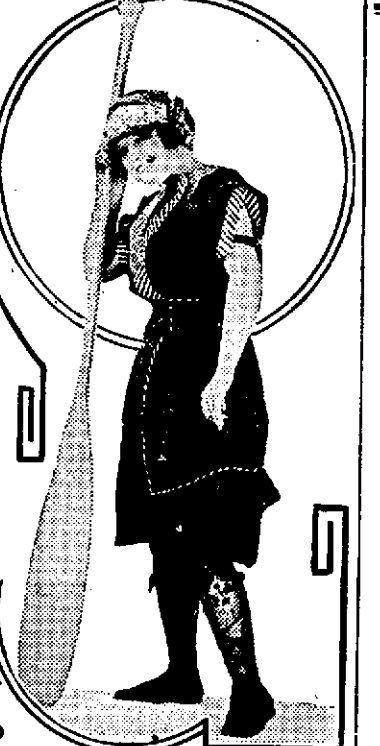

It ought not to be necessary to point out wherein rugs have the advantage over carpets. Tacked down floor coverings are no longer countenanced by thoughtful people. "But," somebody may object, "the cost of replacing carpets by rugs is too expensive an item to consider." Perhaps so, if attempted all at once, but if brought about gradually it will not seem a heavy burden. There are substitutes for the more costly rugs for sale at moderate prices.

The washable cotton rugs for use in the bathrooms or even bedrooms will appeal to the woman of modest means. While combining practicability and cheapness, they are attractive at the same time.

The so-called "grass" coverings should not be overlooked in this matter of desirable floor furnishings. Nearly all the department stores carry them, and the larger firms have a mail order department always at the ready service of the out-of-town customer.

Again, handsome and durable rugs may be made of odds and ends of old carpets. This work can be placed in the hands of certain manufacturers who make a specialty of it, or the weaving can be done at home.

Just a word in regard to one objection brought against rugs of light weight—namely, their tendency to curl up around the edges. To counteract this difficulty there are rug fasteners—compact little devices consisting of flat-headed pins to be nailed to the floor, with corresponding metal hooks which are slipped over them after being attached to the rug.

ASBURY PARK BATHING SUIT

This suit is of black Sicilian edged with magpie silk. The daisies in the stockings are culled by the fair wearer from the fields as she passes to the bathing beach, giving it a sort of striking effect. This suit is both for fresh and salt water wear.

Variety in Hats.
Hats are still claiming much attention, the black straws edged with white, or with white crowns among the most expensive of them. Hemp hats and chips are more costly than the Neapolitan straws, and black is the popular tone. Large hats are favorites, but small ones are so useful they cannot be displaced. Pink hemp hats, also black hemp combined with deep rose color are good sellers. These may be trimmed with pink roses or with blue forget-me-nots and black velvet ribbon in streamers and loops. Among millinery novelties is a handbox for the baby's hats, daintily painted in pink or blue on white cardboard.

Here and There.
For practical wear navy blue is much in favor. The sway of the one-sided trimming is still with us. Odd colors are especially popular just now in millinery. Every other corsage is in the Marie Antoinette effect. Brown hats are being worn with tan colored costumes. Gray marquisette sometimes veils dresses of checked taffetas. Exquisite trimmings in crystal, pearl, steel, and gold are noted on many new evening gowns.

Silver Fized Tongue.

It was a matter of comment at a recent banquet in Savannah, says the Chicago Post, that the Chatham artillery punch was missing. There was some alarm over this until it was established that the recipe had not really gone the way of the secrets concerning Tyrian purple and Damascus steel.

Artillery punch is a solid punch. Its velled wallop is like that of a boxing glove with a brick in it.

Col. A. C. Dawes, who was presiding at a dinner following the installation of a lodge of Elks, had a bowl of it brewed without consulting the company. He had told two or three prominent novitiates that he was going to call upon them after dinner, and they had implored him to pass them by; their timidity was extreme and their command of language school-boyish. Would the colonel please ignore them? He would.

The dinner progressed and the punch came on at its conclusion. After two rounds had passed one of the after-dinner amateurs slipped around to the toastmaster's chair and whispered in his ear:

"Dawes, why don't you ask me to speak?"

GAME CALLED OFF ON ACCOUNT OF RAIN

Richmond and Locals Were Unable to Play Yesterday—Two Games, Here the Fourth.

EVERY AND COOLEY TO PITCH

The game with the Richmond Waldorfs yesterday was called off on account of the rain. It was the first time since the locals opened the season that rain has interfered and the players and fans were disappointed. The Richmond team seems to travel in tough luck as yesterday's game was the fifth they have been unable to play on account of rain.

Both teams were here and ready for the contest. It started to rain about 2:30 o'clock and by three the grounds were a mass of mud and water. "Eddie" Cook, the star second baseman of the local team, sent word by Avery that he would not be able to play on account of a sprained ankle but he later showed up. Cook stated the ankle would be in shape for the two games July 4. "Hop" Spacey, the catcher was back on the job yesterday, after being laid up two weeks with a bum thumb. He will be in the game the fourth against the Bruce-Ramblers of Shelbyville. Avery will pitch the morning and Scott Cooley the afternoon contest.

County Superintendents Change Plan for Coming Year.

Only three or four township trustees were present today at the meeting of the county board of education and the session was postponed.

TROUBLE DATES BACK FEW YEARS

Removal of Haymond Family History From Waldron Church Cornerstone Caused by Old Grudge.

PRINTER PLACED IT IN BOX

According to the building committee of the Waldron M. E. church the financial condition of the new enterprise is excellent, says the Shelbyville News. The church has plenty of money to continue the building and the various societies and organizations that subscribed to the building fund have made large payments.

The Sunday school subscribed $1,000 and has already paid more than $700. The Ladies Aid society subscribed $1,000 and have paid more than $700. Both of these societies were given five years in which to pay their subscriptions.

In connection with the story concerning the removal of the Haymond family history from the cornerstone, George W. Smith, one of the building committee stated to a News representative Saturday that the removal was done with the consent of the entire committee of which Mr. Meloy, the Waldron printer, is the member who placed the history in the box. The trouble between the church and Mr. Haymond is of long standing. It dates back to the time when he withdrew his membership because the church would not sanction his becoming a whisky guager.

On the thirty-first ballot Wilson was still ahead. The vote was: Wilson, 475½; Clark, 446½; Underwood, 116½; Harmon, 17; Kern, 2; Foss, 30; absent, ½.

It was on the thirtieth, the fourth one taken today, that Wilson forged ahead of Clark. It is the first time since the balloting began that the New Jersey governor has polled a larger vote than the Democratic leader in the house of representatives.

The result of this ballot was Wilson, 460; Clark, 455; Underwood, 121½; Harmon, 19; Kern, 2; Foss, 30; absent, ½.

The twenty-ninth ballot resulted as follows: Clark, 468½; Wilson, 436; Underwood, 112; Harmon, 29; Kern, 4; Foss, 28; absent, 1½.

It was on this ballot, the twenty-ninth, that the Indiana delegation bolted the candidate for which it was instructed—Gov. Marshall. The delegation has held on to the Hoosier governor tenaciously even though he never appeared to have a chance. Twenty-nine of the thirty Indiana votes went to Wilson and the other to Kern.

On the twenty-eighth ballot Clark was still in the lead. He polled 468½; Wilson, 437½; Underwood, 112½; Harmon, 29; Kern, 1; Bryan, 1; Foss, 28; absent, ½.

On the first ballot today, the twenty-seventh, Clark showed a gain of 3½ votes over the last ballot Saturday night, and Wilson lost one vote over Sunday.

The ballot resulted as follows: Clark, 469; Wilson, 406½; Underwood, 112; Harmon, 29; Marshall, 30; Bryan, 1; Foss, 28; absent, 2½.

The prevailing sentiment from the floor when the convention opened, was that nothing definite had thus far been accomplished to bring the deadlock to a close, and that if anything, the lines were quite as tight, or tighter, than before, although all recognized that the convention has been replete with so many sudden and sensational changes that a break or a new coup might come at any time.

Among the early arrivals there was a disposition to view Mr. Bryan's move against New York as the adroit adoption of the tactics of the Whitney-Don Dickinson element in aligning the Democratic national convention against Chief Croker and the New York support of David B. Hill. At that time Tammany had its orator in the person of Bourke Cockran, who held the convention throughout the night, until at daybreak the various elements outside New York State gradually forced the nomination of Cleveland. The contest then, as now, was against New York, although the issue of "the interests" had not been injected, and the combined outside elements had the advantage of Cleveland's prestige.

Many of the State delegations held informal caucuses in their sections of the convention hall, where the events since Saturday were discussed. The controversy between Speaker Clark and Mr. Bryan was the uppermost subject of conversation, its probable effect being generally debated. In all corners of the hall men engaged in heated debate.

The Illinois delegation of fifty-eight, headed by Roger C. Sullivan, of Chicago, was one of the last to reach the hall, having been in formal caucus since 10 o'clock. Illinois stood unanimously and firmly for Clark throughout the twenty-six ballots.

FORMER LEGISLATOR ILL.

Thomas Hoban, ninety-one years old, is in a serious condition at his home, near St. Paul of dropsical afflictions, and ill incident to age. He was a representative in the Indiana general assembly from Shelby county for one term, having been appointed in 1884. He has been one of the Democratic wheel horses in Shelby county politics for years.

HE FOLLOWED INSTRUCTIONS

Lewisville Marshal Was Ordered by Town Board to Stop Speeding Automobiles.

HE WILL NOT BE PROSECUTED

Cincinnati Attorney Who Was "Held up" There May 30, Gets "Fine" Back.

L. J. Pfister, president of the M. B. Farrin Lumber Co., of Cincinnati, Ohio, and L. A. Criss, a well known Cincinnati attorney, were in Newcas-tle, and with H. H. Evans, prosecuting attorney, and Sheriff K. K. Kirk, went to Lewisville to investigate the circumstances surrounding the holding up of Pfister and Criss on May 30 by Marshal Ezra Nelson of Lewisville on the charge of violating the speed laws and the payment of $5 to the officer by Pfister to secure his release from custody, says the New-castle Courier.

As the result of the visit Pfister secured the money paid Nelson and returned home satisfied with the results of the trip. The lumberman cared not for the amount of money, but was determined to fight it out on the principle involved, and as a result achieved a victory.

Pfister and his party were held up by Marshal Nelson at Lewisville while they were enroute to their home from the Indianapolis Speedway races on May 30. In order to secure their release they paid the officer five dollars. Afterwards complaint was made to the prosecuting attorney and the investigation resulted.

When Evans, Kirk, Pfister and Criss arrived in Lewisville they hunted up Marshal Nelson. According to Mr. Evans, Nelson stated that he had filed charges against the Cincinnati automobile party before Justice Butler, who was elected twelve years ago, and whose commission expired four years later. An attempt was made to find the justice and his docket, but they could not be located.

Afterwards Nelson took the visitors to the treasurer of the town, who most willingly returned to the Cincinnati lumberman the amount that had been illegally collected from him. He had in all thirteen dollars that had been turned over to him from automobile owners in the same manner that he had caused Pfister to cash in.

No attempt to prosecute the officer will be made. He acted under instructions from the town council of Lewisville to stop speeding automobiles and is said to have acted regardless of the law. Pfister stated that he would not press any case.

HOW many of your hard earned dollars go up in ice each year? A great many more than you would like to have, undoubtedly. The "main question" with most of us is how we can best reduce this number of dollars to a minimum. The solution of the problem lies with the refrigerator.

The price you pay to-day for a refrigerator is but a small part of the price you will pay in the life time of the refrigerator for ice.

It is therefore, economy to buy the best refrigerator—the refrigerator, which because of its scientific construction and superior insulation, will use the least ice and will stand the hardest usage for the greatest number of years.

Let Us Demonstrate the

New Iceless Refrigerator

which maintains a temperature of 45° without the use of ice.
